

The Dream? Anything is possible?

The dream that you have all hoped for has not produced your desired reality. Yet instead America has displayed that she is utterly a divided house. It is insane to suggest another 4 to 8 years of the same economical suicide, but we have republicans that are emotionally and perhaps even mentally maimed as a result of the November 4, 2008 election. Why? We hear over the television and radio that co-workers that used to befriend each other has become estranged. "The work place is tense" they say. Ask yourself how can two people set down and observe the same problems and have such different views? How is this possible? The facts are in; America has not yet become the quilt woven together in love and brother hood as many hoped for. She has come a long way but has not obtained the dream. This shall not occur under Satan's rule the USA is Under Satan's Authority. Many walk in delusion what many now refers to as the dream is a nightmare for others. This is the America that many look past as if it's an aspiration yet it's your and my reality. When we allow the color of one's skin to distort our judgments of the obvious solution and are willing to substitute it with that which will continue to lead us down the highway of despair can we at least admit the change hoped for has not taken place yet? Instead racial tension has began to mount and if you listen to the cry of the country we are divided more so now than we were before the election. Surely man is at lost. Man pretends not to see the truth although it strikes them in the face. Must we continue to wallow in the vacuum of lies? America is a divided house and unless she learns to suppress her hate this election will produce more of an injury then a solution. Our people remind me of the Bible's Lazarus begging for the crumbs that fell from the rich man's table. Ignorantly they say Obama is our kin because our skin is black like me. The man is not an Israelite, his father is a Hamite. When in this hell will we wake up, pool our resources and do for self? Our unity is more powerful then anyone man. We really need to wake up people. The one man that shall return to save is the real Messiah Yahawashi (Jesus Christ). If you honestly think that you will find salvation in a political figure you are indeed out of touch with reality. It is wonderful to see one of us stand up in a country where our ancestors were made slaves and say "I am the new Pharaoh". But Obama is not one of us. He does not speak for us he speaks under the authority of the puppet masters. His strings are pulled by Zionist and Illuminists figures unseen to the ignorant. Yisrael we must not become blinded with this accomplishment because in order for us to rise those previously in power must fall. Have you considered the fear that is currently revolving in their communities and secret circles? Close your eyes and briefly imagine what their conversation must be like. Stay tuned because it is going to get hot! Our salvation is in our God and unity not politics, yet still you think "it's an honor to have one that just might represent us as the head". Jeremiah 17:5 "Thus saith the LORD; Cursed be the man that trusteth in man, and maketh flesh his arm, and whose heart departeth from the LORD". Keep your ears to the concrete
